

Rafael Salido-Vallejo is assistant professor and consultant dermatologist in the Department of Dermatology at the University Clinic of Navarra, Pamplona, Spain.

Dr. Salido-Vallejo received his degree in medicine (MD) at the University of Granada, Spain. He also trained in clinical and surgical dermatology and venereology at the Reina Sofía University Hospital of Córdoba in Spain. He then earned a master's degree in Health Science Research and Statistics at the University of Córdoba where obtained his PhD grade in Medicine with honors in 2016.

His research interest focuses on the dermatological surgery, intralesional therapy for non-melanoma skin cancers and actinic keratosis treatment.